

RINCON RESTAURANT GUIDE... We try to provide a list of restaurants as a service to our guests, but as you can imagine, it is very hard (almost impossible) to keep this guide 100% up to-date. It certainly is not an all inclusive list, but is meant to be a starting point and to be used as a guide. It is always a good idea to call to make sure they are still open, and check the hours of operation, get directions, etc. Please help us keep this list as current as possible by letting us know if any are no longer in business, or if you find a new restaurant that you think should be added.

There are many different types of restaurants in Rincon and the surrounding areas. The following is a list that we and other guests have recommended. Don't hesitate to try new ones. If you like them, or even if you do not, let us know in the Guest Comment Book so future guests will know the best places to go.

Throughout Puerto Rico - Roadside Favorites

You might also want to try the road side stands for typical Puerto Rican cuisine such as pinchos, Shish kabobs - usually they are pork but sometimes you can get fish, beef, or chicken. You might also want to try papa's rellenos, potato balls with beef or pork inside; empanadillas / little pies with stuffing's of beef, pork lobster, shrimp or chicken; you will also find basted chicken which by some has been called the best in the world.

Another item you might want to try is a piragua, which is Puerto Rico's version of an Icee shaved ice with delicious tropical flavorings. You will find this concoction on the street of any town or city. You just look for a little cart with a large block of ice and a lot of bright colored bottles. One might also try to spot the ice cream man and sample the coconut or pineapple ice cream. In Rincon, these carts can usually be found around La Estacion, the bakery on Road 115 which heads into town. The cart is usually there daily from noon to 5pm. A small cup runs 50 cents and a large in a dollar.
